Select Poetry.

THE TWO WORKERS.

Two workers in one field
Toiled on from day to day;
Both had the same hard labor,
Both had the same small pay.
With the same blue sky above,
The same green grass below;
One soul was full of love,
The other full of woe.

One leaped up with the light,
With the soaring of the lark;
One felt it every night,
For his soul was ever dark.
One heart was hard as stone,
One heart was ever gay;
One worked with many a groan,
One whistled all the day.

One had a flower-clad cot
Beside a merry rill;
Wife and children near the spot
Made it sweeter, fairer still.
One a wretched hovel had,
Full of discord, dirt and din
No wonder he seem'd mad,
Wife and children starved within.

Still they worked in the same field,
Toiled on from day to day;
Both had the same hard labor
Both had the same small pay.
But they worked not with one will;
The reason let me tell:
Lo! one drank at the still,
And the other at the well.

History of the 49th Pennsylvania.

BY A. B. HUTCHISON,
Late Captain of Company 'C.'

CHAPTER XI.

Resume of the Past—Resignations and Discharges among the Officers—Return of the Colonel and Major—The Second Battle of Fredericksburg—The Movements of Lee —The March towards Pennsylvania.

Up to April, 1863, the 49th regiment had been singularly fortunate, so far as loss s were concerned. As yet, we had never lost an officer, killed; and, considering our service, but few men. We had been constantly on picket lines near the enemy—had performed some part in nearly every conflict; but from Yorktown to Fredericksburg, for a full year, we had never lost heavily in any one fight—Golding's farm, near Richmond, being our severest experience in that regard. A more serious future was then still ahead of us, and we propose, before entering upon our history consecutively, to indulge in a glance at the condition of our regiment, and some changes it had met.

While the bullets of the enemy had not greatly thinned our ranks, it was clear that something had; for, from ten companies, we had got down to four.—The most of our losses were caused by the terrible fevers on the Peninsula, and we had had our full share of the ordinary diseases and accidents of camp life. We were near four hundred strong, but our rolls had then been inscribed with the names of a thousand men. True, all were not lost entirely from the service some were on detailed duty; some had, after recovery, enlisted in other organizations; some were in hospitals with a prospect of return. Up to this time, the following officers had left us, and others had taken their places. Lt. Kelm, Co K, resigned Jan. 8, 1862; Lt. Harper, Co A, Feb. 26, '62; Lt. Spanogle and Lt. Reed, of C and G, March 4, '62; and, as before stated, Capt. Green, Co. A, April 12, '62. These officers, except Lt. Reed, who was honorably discharged, alleged that they were forced to resign, by the unfriendly treatment of the Colonel, and his disposition to get them out of the regiment. On the other hand, the Colonel and his friends complained of these, and other officers, and, as was the usual case in our army, we had in the 49th, our jealousies, feuds, factions and disputes. Where are they not found?—In July, 1862, Capt. Smith, of Co. B, resigned to accept the position of Major 61st P. V., and afterwards rose to Colnel of that regiment. Capt. Zollinger, Co. E, resigned July 25, '62, on account of ill health. Capt. R. L. Maclay, for the same reason, on July 16, '62. He afterwards became a member of the Bar at Harrisburg, and died at Milroy soon after the war ended. He was a most gallant officer, an educated and accomplished gentleman, and his departure from the regiment was greatly regretted. He was a tutor in Mississippi when the war commenced, and came up the river on the last boat that was permitted to pass Vicksburg. He immediately entered the service of the United States, and was active and zealous until physical weakness compelled him to leave the field. Adjt. Thos F. Neice resigned in July, '62, also on account of the difficulties before referred to. In September, Capt. M. Neice, of Co. K, resigned for the same reasons. Lieut. James Chambers, Co. E, was honorably discharged, Sept. 30, '62, and Ass't Surgeon, Jno. F. Huber, was promoted to Surgeon of the 131st P. V., a nine months regiment.—In October, after the battle of Antietam, the difficulties about our regimental headquarters culminated in the resignations of our Lt. Col. William Brisbane, an officer of bravery, ability and culture; and of our Chaplain, Rev Wm. Ernshaw, who is Chaplain in the U. S. A. at this time, and in charge of the Soldier's Asylum at Dayton, Ohio. Chaplain Ernshaw had been very popular in the regiment; had always been with us, in action as well as out; had been active in attending upon and assisting the sick and wounded; was out postmaster by voluntary act; often, by long rides, securing our mails in advance, and often writing letters home for the sick or illiterate, his departure was much regretted by the regiment. Lt. John Stewart, Co. I, resigned October 22, '62. Lt. A. G. Dickey, Co. C, resigned Oct. 27, 62. He was appointed Captain of Co K, 8th U. S. colored troops, and fell in battle, in front of Petersburg, in 1864. His character as a man, and his abilities as an officer, were far above the average. Capt. John Boal of Co. G, who had been prostrated by the fever at Harrison's Landing, and whose sickness had been so severe as to render his recovery not only a matter of great doubt, but of much time, also resigned Oct. 25, '62. Capt. Boal was the most popular of the line officers of the regiment, so far as the men were concerned, and all were sorry for the necessity that compelled him to leave us. He did not fully recover until a year later, when he re-entered the service as Captain Co. A, 9th Pa. Cavalry, and served with Sherman through Georgia and the Carolinas, until March 16, 1865 when, in a last skirmish, and probably by the last shot fired at that army, he was mortally wounded, and died an hour afterwards.

Brave, even to recklessness, so far as himself was concerned, he was careful of the lives and of the comfort of his men, never exposing them without good cause, and always standing up firmly for their just rights. Generous to a fault, frank, fearless, true-hearted and honorable in every respect, that last shot at Sherman's army took from his country as gallant and noble a soldier as ever carried a sword in defence of his cause. The writer of this record succeeded him in the 49th, and had served under his immediate command from the beginning of the war, and, therefore, feels that he knows whereof he testifies, as to Capt. Boal, at least. Capt. A. S. Davidson, Co. A, resigned Nov. 17, '62 on account of ill health, and was succeeded by Capt. Jas. A. Quigley, of Eagleville. Ass't Surgeon S. R. Sample, resigned Dec. 2, '62, having served only three months with us.—Our Surgeon, W. H. Gobrecht, Professor in the Penn'a College, and an eminent Physician, resigned Jan. 26, '63. He was a valuable Surgeon, and was promoted to the Vol. Staff of the Medical Department of the Army. Ass't Surgeon, B. F. Sides, also resigned Jan. 24, leaving us without a medical officer. Chas. H. Wilsen was appointed Surgeon, and proved a most valuable officer to us, as did his new Ass'ts, S. B. P. Knox, and Geo. R. S. Spratt, who, in turn, were promoted afterwards to his rank. Capt J. D. Campbell, of Co. D, and Capt. C. De Witt, of Co. I, resigned Jan. 11, '63, on account of the difficulties, and, as before stated, at the time of the consolidation of the regiment. In March, 1863, Lt. D. J. Wallings, of Co. F, resigned, and Lt. R. M. McClelland, of Co. I, who was hurt at Goldinff's farm, by a shell, and who had not recovered, was honorably discharged. So now, having recounted the changes in the personal of the regiment, we are ready to resume the record.

THE RULING PLANET.—Mars is the ruling planet for 1869. He is generally a fierce and uncompromising supervisor. A cold Spring, a long, hot and dry Summer, an Autumn without fruit, and a December with a grey beard and a throne of icicles. Mars has less regard for the personal comfort of the world's inhabitants than he has for the gratification of his own whims and fancies. He thunders often without rain, and is fond of a fight either on the earth or among the clouds. He delights in earthquakes, lightning and hail storms, and people are not apt to relish his mad freaks, who live in shaky houses, and have no shutters to their windows on the outside. He blows considerably, but still, as a general thing, executes more. He will burn down a house or barn, at times, as gracefully as though he were executing a French figure in a ball-room, and sweep away steeples, roofs and dwellings from the hill-tops, without any compunctious visitations of conscience. He is fond of the sight of blood, and, as a natural consequence, murders and suicides are frequently found in his train. He is not especially fond of parental, filial or fraternal feeling, and will laugh at domestic broils, and the severance of the nearest and dearest relations. We would advise our readers to be careful, sober and watchful during the balance of the year, for our ruling planet is already on the war-path.

MEN WANTED.—The great want of this age is men. Men who are not for sale. Men who are honest, sound from centre to circumferance, true to the heart's core. Men who will condemn wrong in friend or foe, in themselves as well as others. Men whose consciences are as steady as the needle to the pole. Men who will stand for the right if the heavens totter and the earth reels. Men who can tell the truth and look the world and the devil right in the eye. Men that neither brag nor run. Men that neither flag nor flinch. Men who can have courage without shouting to it. Men in whom the courage of everlasting life runs still, deep and strong. Men too large for sectarian bonds. Men who do not cry nor cause their voices to be heard on the streets, but who will not fail nor be discouraged till judgment be seat in the earth. Men who know their message and tell it. Men who know their places and fill them.—Men who mind their own business. Men who will not lie. Men who are not too lazy to work, nor too proud to be poor. Men who are willing to eat what they have earned, and wear what they have paid for.—Southern Home Journal.

From The Irish Republic.

The Great English Dragon.

"He ate the church, he ate the steeple,
He ate the priest and all the people."

Protection to American Industry has assumed such formidable proportions within the last year, that Free Trade—that dragon that has issued from his den in London, and devoured the products of so many ruined nations—is beginning to feel its end approaching. As protection to American manufactures means the closing up of the English workshops, and as the closing up of the English workshops means revolution and the restoration of the land to the English people, the disruption of the oligarchy that has grown hoary and hardened with crime, it is well for all Protectionists to brace themselves for the coming of the dragon that is to devour American Industry. His meals are not so plentifully furnished now as formerly, hence his coming will be more dangerous.

The wealth of plundered nations is in the English coffers. This wealth will be distributed to defeat America. Is there enough of honor in this Republic to rise above the reach of English purchase?

Ireland had once a Parliament, and it became necessary to England to destroy that Parliament, and thus destroy Irish competition with English goods, for without a Legislature to protect and encourage national manufactures to the exclusion of all dangerous competitors abroad no nation can prosper, no manufacture can flourish. England went into our Irish Parliament and dispersed it by buying it out. Thus with one grand sweep she destroyed Irish manufactures, and left our cities to jackdaws and our fields to lazy heads.

The manufactures of India were broken up by the same power, and her princes hired to kill and enslave their people that England might fatten. She is the great ogre of nations and can only thrive on the ruin of others.

Men may say that America is not Ireland nor India, and proudly toss their heads in their imaginative safety. The Irish Parliament had men on its rolls whose names will live while freedom has a place in the hearts of freemen, or eloquence a place in the archives of nations. And yet this unscrupulous English serpent crawled into its halls and seduced our Parliament to barter their country's prosperity and partial independence. Such names as Grattan, Flood, Bushe, Plunket and others were on the roll of that Parliament and raised their voices against the destruction which they saw coming, and which came.

How many millions England spent in accomplishing our destruction is of no consequence. Millions are nothing to England in a grand national speculation. This was the best speculation she ever made. It saved her empire from destruction. Ireland with a Parliament of her own, with commerce and manufactures of her own, could compete with England in the markets of the world. Ireland would have found it to her advantage to have cut away from England altogether long ere this, and what would England have been with an independent, hostile Ireland at her doors? England saw this. England sees everything that is likely to obstruct her greatness, and will sweep all obstacles from her path with as much unconcern as housemaids brush spiders from their rooms.

Since the destruction of the Irish Parliament and manufactures, Ireland has been a reservoir from which England has drawn her life-blood. Our beggared people have filled her armies. Our manufactures perished. Our artisans emigrated. The raw material flowed into England. Ireland was a nation no more. We have been doing nothing since then but working on England's plantation—Ireland—raising luxuries for the English tables, and dying of starvation even while the good things, that God intended for the producers, passed from our wondering eyes to feed our masters.

Ireland's misery has been England's joy. Ireland's poverty has been England's opulence. We are contributing to her strength and to her glory. We forge chains that she intends for our limbs. We are helpless and can not avoid doing so.

There is one way by which we can destroy the vulture that has fed so long on our nation's heart, and that way is to shut out her paper-manufactured goods from the United States.

Give us a Protective Tariff that will enable the American capitalists to unlock the hills and make the nights luminous with furnaces, and we will disrupt the British Empire in a year. Not by Canadian raids nor ill-timed and ill-prepared movements in Ireland, but by the hands of the English people themselves.

Already the English manufacturers are undersold in the English markets by those of France and Germany, and the English are crying out for Protection against the French and German "Free Trade" importations. Free Trade is only good while it enables England to supply the world with her manufactures; but when the French and German artisans, who can live on the parings of what an Englishman eats, can undersell the English in English markets then Free Trade is not so good.

Already many of the manufactories in England are closed. Others are running at reduced wages. Strikes are the consequence, and there are some thirty thousand men "locked out" now from the mills of England. If the Free-Trade Tariff which America now imposes on foreign manufactures can alarm all England and set her treasury on the move in America, what would be the consequences if England was to shut out from the American market for one year? Every mill and factory in England should close their doors. This would send at least two million of English artisans into the ranks of the revolution. Englishmen are not like Irishmen, and will not starve to accommodate their masters and teachers. Get these men once aroused and maddened and they will sweep the oligarchy of England out of their high places.

The English revolution is coming. The English people are patient, but when they do rise, woe unto the tyrants who have rioted while the people have fasted. The sooner we precipitate this revolution in England the better. With a people's government in England there will be a Republic in Ireland, but not until the present system of hell is destroyed can an Irish Republic be established in Ireland. Both cannot exist at one time.

The hosts of Free Trade are on the move. England is using her great power and talents to spread the glamour of Free Trade over the eyes of America. Every Irishman must now take up the the Protection movement and support it with all his might. All other questions must be made subservient to this. Ireland's liberty' England's liberty, America's posperity, all hang on this issue. Where is the Irishman who will hesitate to quit the Free Trade platform and side with Protection to American Industry?

With all her Free Trade, England's artisans are little better than paupers. We only benefit their tyrants by purchasing their goods. Let the people force the capitalists out here to take what belongs to them, the land of England, to themselves.

A Rural Lesson in Rhetoric.

Brown was invited to visit a town in the extreme rural districts for the purpose of lecturing the people on temperance. He arrived at his destination in the evening, and was invited to cottage of a farmer to partake of supper previous to the display of his eloquence.

The farmer had two sons, twenty to twenty-five years of age, and to them a temperance lecturer appeared something more than an ordinary man. Brown had great difficulty in drawing them into conversation, but at length the ice was broken, and the following colloquy was the result:

"I suppose you've both affixed your names to the pledge long ago?" queried our friend.

"Which?"

"I presume you are both temperance men, and have pledged yourselves to abstain from the use of everything that intoxicates."

"The which; stranger?"

"You do not get the idea clearly. I was expressing the hope that you do not indulge in intoxicating beverages."

"Eh?"

"That you do not indulge in the inebriating cup."

"Sir?"

"Do either of you drink liquor? That's what I'm trying to get at."

"Waal, stranger, I'll be dogened," exclaimed the eldest, "I didn't know but ye was a talkin' French jabber. Why didn't ye ax the thing right eout? Sam and me don't drink no liquor to speak on, 'cept hayin' and harvest, and then we drink right smart. So does father and everybody 'round here. Ef ye talk French stuff in yer lecture, stranger, 'twont du much good, I tell ye, for nobody won't know a word wot yer means in this yer neck o'timber, sartin and sure."

Brown declares this to be the best lesson in rhetoric he ever received, and he made an unusual effort to adapt his words to the comprehension of his hearers in that "neck o'timber." Other speak

Who are the Imperialists?

The Democratic Watchman and the entire Copperhead press are apparently greatly concerned about a new paper, started a few weeks since, in New York, entitled The Imperialist. They are laboring to make the impression that this paper is started and published in the interests of the Republican party. They know better. They know that there is not an imperialist or monarchist in the ranks of the Republican party. They also know that every man who hates freedom, who loves slavery, who hates Republicanism or genuine Democracy, and who advocates a monarchical form of Government, are found in the ranks of the Copperhead or sham Democratic party. Nearly every rebel in the South is in favor of a monarchical Government. They claim that Republican Government has proved a failure. Nearly every one of these ex-rebels act with the sham Democracy upon the principle that "Birds of a feather flock together." The ex-rebel leaders, and the leaders of the Copperheads in the North, would overthrow this Republic and establish a monarchy upon the ruins thereof, in less time than it takes us to write this article, if they had the power to do so.

If the Imperialist is published in the interest of the Republican party, why does not the Watchman copy some of its articles? Why does not the Watchman publish to the world the name or names of the Editors and publishers of said paper? They dare not do it. For it is a well known fact that there is not a Republican connected with it in any way. We venture that it has been started under the auspices of the "Free Trade League"—that its Editors are unnaturalized Englishmen, ex-rebels or Democrats of the GEO. W. WOODWARD school. The men who long for a monarchy in this country are all found in the Copperhead or sham Democratic party. The Democrats in New York have the Governor of the State, and full control in the city, why do they not suppress the publication of the Imperialist? For the simple reason that they have aided in starting it, and all their sympathies are with it.

The Republican party is the party that saved the Government. It embraces within its organization all the principles of the true Democracy. The great mass of the people belong to the Republican party. No party, says an exchange, "has ever so resolutely labored to give every man his rights, and make it possible for every man to rise, if his talents or ability warrant it, as the Republican party." The measures adopted by the Republicans have, without exception, broadened the base of government. When they found men and women in slavery, they struck off the chains. When American citizens were disfranchized, they gave them back the American citizen's right to frame his own laws, and choose his own law-makers.

Opposed to every measure of Democracy, every step towards a true Republic, have been the leaders of the modern Democratic party. They declared that Capital should own Labor, and they, therefore, made slaves of four millions of people. They expressed nothing but contempt for the "mud-sills," and "greasy mechanics," and "small farmers," who constitute the bone and sinew of Northern industry, and they would have enslaved these, too, if their theories had conquered at Gettysburg and Appomattox. Such men, ruling the South, have had warm and earnest coadjutors in the monied aristocrats, like AUGUST BELMONT; in the social aristocrats, like WILLIAM B. REED; in the ambitious demagogues, such as ANDREW JOHNSON; and in every blatant fault-finder, who, in the past four years, upheld the encroachments of Executive power, against the people's rights, protected by the people's representatives.

True Democracy is the equal power of all the people. A true Republic deprives no man of his voice in the Government, except the law breaker. To such a Republic are we really come, and the men who oppose our progress, are the real Imperialists. In whatever degree they disfranchise the American citizen, in that degree are they false to Democracy. Just as far as they go to restrict the rights of suffrage, so far do they go toward Aristocracy, Imperialism, Monarchism, Kings, Emperors, Despots—what not?

Men may justly regret the corruptions of politics; may justly rebuke the growth of evil features in our Government; may very properly ask for judicious reforms; may complain, perhaps, that our public servants are not more faithful. But whenever a man, under the blessings of this Republic, with the possibilities it gives him, and the humanity it protracts in him, rails against the Government, as intrinsically bad, set him down for a vicious knave, who hates his brother's equality; or a thoughtless fool, who does not comprehend his own words.

Consistency vs. Inconsistency.

"To say nothing of the claims put forward by a nominal soldier and resident of this county, we will at once get at the merit of the case by asking what possible excuse can be cooked up for the removal of that genuine hero and gallant and courteous gentleman, Maj. Harry Forster, of Bellefonte. In the records of the war for the Union, there appears the name of no better or braver soldier than Maj. Forster. Covered with honorable wounds, each scar upon his broken frame speaks more eloquently than words, and the exercise of common decency should have prevented his removal."—Clinton Democrat.

It will be seen from the above that the Clinton Democrat has become indignant over the removal of HARRY FORSTER from the Assessors office of the 18th District. The Democrat says that "In the records of the war for the Union there appears the name of no better or braver soldier, than MAJ. FORSTER." When, we ask, did the editor of the Democrat become a convert to the doctrine that the war was a "war for the Union?" MAJ. FORSTER entered the Union army to battle for the Union. No sooner had he done so than the Clinton Democrat and the Watchman denounced him as an abolitionist, and one of "Old Abes" "dirty hired minions." The Republican party of Centre county, nominated him, while in the army, as their candidate for the lower House of the State Legislature. What did the Democrats and the Watchman do? Did they rally round the standard of MAJ. FORSTER, who was at the time actively engaged "in the war for the Union," and elect him to the legislature? They did no such thing. But worked against him, voted against him, and heartily despised him as they then said, for being such a consummate fool as to engage in an "unholy crusade against his Southern brethren," and for going over soul and body to the "Black Republican Abolition party." The Democrats had no love for MAJ. FORSTER then. They voted against him to a man, and he was not elected as the Union Member of the Legislature.

The next fall he was again nominated by the Union Republican party, and again the traitorous Democracy defeated him, preferring to vote for FRED KURTZ, who had opposed the "war for the Union" opposed the draft, and copied into his little Berichter all the hard names and foul epithets that P. G. MEEK ever applied to our brave soldiers, and published in the columns of the Watchman.

The letter written in 1863 by Maj. FORSTER, defining his position, and giving his reasons why he could not support GEO. W. WOODWARD for Governor of Pennsylvania, was sufficient to condemn him in the eyes of the Democracy. In that letter he claimed that he was fighting in a "war for the Union." The Watchman, Clinton Democrat, &c., said it was an abolition war, and that Maj. FORSTER was an "abolitionist, a turn-coat, and a renegade." GEO. W. WOODWARD is, to day, the same aristocratic, secession sympathiser that he was when he run for Governor; the very same unrepentent rebel he was all through the war. He has never apologized for his treasonable course. He has never retracted one word of what he has written, although he openly declared that he hoped Pennsylvania would secede, and go with the South. For this reason, and for his known treasonable and monarchical sentiments, he was transferred to the stronghold of traitors, the Luzerne District, and by them elected to Congress. The Democrats, all over the State, recognize G. W. WOODWARD as their chosen leader. He has always been right, says the Watchman. He opposed the war from the start, and sympathised with the rebels all through that bloody struggle. He has never changed. He is no turn-coat, no renegade. So says the Democratic Watchman, and the Clinton Democrat re-echoes the cry.

If GEO. W. WOODWARD has never changed, where stands Maj HARRY FORSTER? WOODWARD denounced the war-Maj. FORSTER fought to save the Union. The Clinton Democrat and Democratic Watchman praised WOODWARD for his opposition, and denounced Maj. FORSTER as an Abolitionist. Now, GEO. W. WOODWARD, the semi-rebel, and Maj. HARRY FORSTER are found acting together in the same political party. WOODWARD has never changed. Has Maj. FORSTER? Will the Maj. admit, to-day, that the Democrats were right in their opposition to the war, and that he was wrong in defending the "Stars and Stripes," and driving back the rebel hordes—the WOODWARD men—and causing them to surrender to the lawfully constituted authorities? The Maj. must admit that he was right, and WOODWARD was wrong. He must admit that Gen. LEE was a traitor of the meanest kind, that he fought to destroy the Union. Nevertheless the Clinton Democrat and Democratic Watchman, that now becomes so enraged at the removal of Maj. FORSTER class Gen's. LEE, HILL, JOHNSON and other rebel General's with Maj. HARRY FORSTER as their fighting men.

While the Maj. associates with such men, while he persists in voting contrary to the way he shot, while he acts and co-operates with the enemies of his country and the men he condemned in his letter in 1863, above referred to, he cannot expect the sympathies of the "Boys in Blue," or to hold office under a loyal Administration. The Maj. may have been, and no doubt was, a brave soldier, and has honorable scars; but there is a strange inconsistency in his course since the war, having voted to condemn the part he took in saving the nation's life, and to justify the course pursued by the leaders of the Democratic party in opposing it.

We agree with the Editor of the Clinton Republican when he says that "Good citizens will need no other reason for the removal of Maj. FORSTER than the fact that he is on the list of the Clinton Democrat's heroes. When a public man gets so low as to accept such championship, he is destitute indeed. He may have merit, but he will be without honest reputation wherever the Democrat is known."

By Their Fruits.

When, says the Newark Courier, a party is to be adjudged, it is by the fundamental principles of its platform and the acts of its administration. By this rule how appear the national records of the Democratic and Republican party?

The Democratic party has always taught the principle of State sovereignty, and denied the right of the Federal Government to maintain its own integrity. Under these anarchical teachings, it fostered the most treasonable sentiments, concocted one of the most stupendous rebellions on record, armed and equipped it so far as a bankrupted national treasury could do it, and made the astonishing declaration in a speciously worded message, that there was no legal authority for suppressing the rebellion or coercing the seceded States, and our Union was but a "rope of sand," destined to fall to pieces by its own weight. No power, they said—for so they hoped—could save it. In this condition they yielded up what they considered the exhausted power of Government into the hands of the Republicans, who, they prophecied, would be speedily overwhelmed.

Thus they labored assiduously for years to destroy our institutions and inaugurate a ruinous reign of anarchy, which they believed would end in a monarchy, with the old Democratic leaders at its head. Consistently with their principles, their policy and the object in view, they denounced every movement for the suppression of the rebellion as unconstitutional, predicted failure, opposed the administration in and out of Congress, and furnished men and means only as far as the vigorous measures of the Government compelled them—or, in the words of the apology for the Governor of the Empire State for sending troops to repel the invasion of Pennsylvania, "because they could not help it." Popular sentiment and the tide of events were against them, and swept them on in spite of themselves.

Under such circumstances the Republican party took the bankrupted government and the distracted Union, and by dint of almost supernatural efforts and perseverance, brought order out of anarchy, saved the Union, and still continue to pursue the even tenor of their way, in spite of treachery, falsehood and jibe. They are making it truly "the land of the free and the home of the brave." They have overthrown the Democratic plot, overcome Democratic machinations and proved the falsity of Democratic prophecy. As they have done in the past so will the Republicans do in the future. They show their faith by their works. The tree is known by its fruits.

THE National, in last week's issue, complains of the action of the County Committee in selecting a delegate to the State Convention, and leaving him uninstructed. It also criticises the Committee because there were so few in attendance, and intimates that they had no proper authority to select one of the Editors of this paper, on the ground that he had declared himself in favor of HARTRANFT for Governor. If there were not enough of the Committee to select a delegate, it strikes us, it would not have been less presumptuous to instruct a delegate in the name of the county. As the action of the committee was perfectly regular, and the meeting held in accordance with a call published by proper authority, we cannot see the propriety of the 'Organ' calling their action in question, or refusing to publish the proceedings of the only body that can represent the party in the county.

The allegation that either the delegate selected, or the REPUBLICAN, is committed to the nomination of Gen. HARTRANFT, or anybody else, is not correct. The columns of the REPUBLICAN are open to the advocates of any candidate, to a reasonable space, and the delegate will endeavor to fairly represent the true interests of the party in the State and the county. Both the delegate and the paper will give an energetic support to the nominee of the convention, whoever he may be.

CONVENTION.—The School Directors of Centre county met in Convention, on Tuesday, the 4th inst., for the purpose of electing a County Superintendent. Prof. Magee was re-elected, and his salary fixed at $1200 per annum. The Democrats all voted for Magee, and some fifteen or twenty Republicans. The Democrats made a political matter of it. The Republicans labored to keep it out of politics. They were fooled. Fair notice, Democrats, it is the last time.

—A Mississippi editor and justice of the peace married a couple in 1858, divorced them in 1860, married the man to another woman in 1861, married the woman to another man in '62, and last week he remarried the original couple.

Practice vs. Profession.

The Democratic party, says an exchange, professes to be a great stickler for Constitutional form, and the real exponent of law and order. It assumes (the Providence Press says) to be the special barrier against the encroachments of radicalism, and is constantly warning the country against the pernicious principles of late prevailing and destined to remain operative till the questions involved in the rebellion shall be settled.

But that party have a curious practice to show how they construct their professions. The recent course of the Democratic members of the Indiana Legislature in resigning their seats and leaving each house without a quorum, and a persistency in their factiousness, completely blocking the wheels of Government, is a procedure which ill comports with their professions. It is anarchical, something which overtops radicalism in its worst phases, for it strikes at government itself, and deals a blow which upheaves all law and order.

Within twelve years, this system of Democratic tactics has been pursued in Indiana three times, annulling the Legislature and introducing disorder and confusion. This year the appropriation bill and the necessary general legislation for carrying on the operation of the government have not been enacted. A minority effectually rule, in contravention of the true Democratic idea of a majority. To this low estate has the Democratic party fallen! Its lesson should not be lost. Parties which neglect the living vital issues of the hour, and presume to live on dead issues, soon cease to be parties; they become factions. They are a mischievous element in the body politic, powerless for good and powerful for evil.

THE last Legislature, says the Lewisburg Chronicle, just before its final adjournment, did one good act in the passage of a bill to which attention generally is called. The evil of obscene advertisements, in all their several devices and shapes, has been long felt in almost every community, in the demoralization of society and the ruin of our youth. The last convention of the Pennsylvania Medical Society, in a series of resolutions, condemned this among other immoralities of the press, and urgently requested the Legislature to enact a law punishing the publication of obscene advertisements in any and every shape. The bill now enacted covers every case of obscenity in advertisements, whether it be of medicines or other means or instrumentality of curing secret diseases or irregularities in male or female and punishes with fine and imprisonment any person or persons convicted of the printing or writing, as an advertisement or as a poster, or show bill, any such noxious remedies. It has been our invariable rule to discard advertisements of an obnoxious character, regardless of any overtures. We would be as loth to introduce small pox into our family as to admit such advertisements into our columns.

Free Trade Movement.

An important meeting of the opponents of a protective tariff was held in Boston on the 20th inst. Edward Atkinson presided. He said the old political issues being settled, the time had come for the remodeling of parties on questions of revenue, financial and civil service reform. The persons concerned in this movement aimed to bring about a desired change in the fiscal policy of the nation, not by establishing a new political party, but by moulding public opinion. The very existence of New England as a manufacturing region depended upon a cheap supply of food from the West. Cheap food could not be had without cheap transportation, and that was out of the question so long as the heavy duties are levied on railroad iron.

William Lloyd Garrison followed, and announced himself a radical free trader.

William Endicott, Jr., offered a series of resolutions in favor of duties only for raising revenue; of reducing the volume of currency and resuming specie payment; of reciprocity treaties and of the appointing to office only on the ground of fitness.

An Association called the "Reform League," was established, and a determination manifested to push the work with energy.

Hon. A. G. Curtin Serenaded.

Hon. A. Gurtin, the newly appointed minister to Russia, was serenaded last evening at his residence, No. 1813 Spruce street, by about four hundred soldiers who participated in the late war, and a number of his personal friends. Hassler's Band was in attendance and contributed greatly towards the evening's entertainment.

Gen. S. D. Olliphant and Col. Richard Ellis, of the Pennsylvania Reserves, Captain A. M. K. Storrie, and J. T. Worthington, Esq., were in the parlor with Gov. Curtin. A large number of ladies and Mrs. Curtin and the Misses Curtin were in the drawing-room, from which a good view was had of the serenaders. About midnight Gov. Curtin appeared at the door of his residence, where three cheers were loudly given for him. He spoke as follows:

I almost regret, fellow-citizens, to deprive you of the pleasure of listening to more of that sweet music for the purpose of hearing what I have to say. Your presence to-night and this compliment might have an equivocal meaning—a satisfaction that a citizen of Pennsylvania is about to leave the country, or from the gathering of a few of his fellow-citizens to wish him God-speed in that mission it has pleased the Government to confer on him. I take it in the latter sense, for in long years of official connection with the people of Pennsylvania I have so many ties, so many memories of the past, so much to bind me to the State and its glory and power, and the happiness and prosperity of its people, that I cannot but leave you with regret. The office that takes me abroad comes to me, my fellow-citizens, without solicitation. [Applause.] I did not ask for it myself, nor did I ask any man, or any body of men in Pennsylvania to make solicitations at the throne of official power for the high honor conferred upon me.—[Applause.] The President of the United States gave me my office himself, [loud cheers] of his own motion and will. Whatever may have been my deserts, whether I have served this people faithfully in the highest honor which they gave to me for six long, anxious and laborious years, or not, he at least was pleased to select a citizen of Pennsylvania for a high position without any solicitation from any man or any party. Now, my friends, if the President of the United States had laid down before me personally, all the positions in his gift, I would have laid my finger upon the Russian mission. [Applause.] Neither my training in life, nor my course of study have qualified me for either of the other two great missions. Delicate questions are to be settled at these courts—complicating already—incurred by reason of their course during the civil war in this country, which may result to the honor of the minister at the Court of St. James, or which may result in his disgrace. I go to a friendly people.—[Applause.] Strange, indeed, that the people living under the greatest monarchical government in the world, and the people living under the only true free government in the world sho'd have so long been friends.

The people of Russia and America have always been friends. We feel peculiarly friendly to the present monarch of Russia, because, in the face of a powerful and rich aristocracy, he, in one day, by a decree from his own will, struck the shackles from every slave in Russia, and made every man free.—[Cheers.] Nay, more, my friends and fellow-citizens—if you are not my friends you are at least my countrymen—in the darkest hours of the war in 1863, when the conscription was searching for troops to fill the desolated armies of the Republic, through out every town and city in this State, and in all the loyal States in the Union; when gold had attained its highest point of premium; when the two great Powers of Europe were called upon, and we were trembling with anxiety lest they should recognize the nationality of the rebellion, there suddenly appeared a Russian fleet of armed ships, in the harbor of New York, [applause], in December 1863, and the fleet sailed to Hampton waters. There was no trade, there was no flourish of rhetoric, but there was a silent admonition to the Powers abroad that if they recognized the nationality of the rebellion the Czar of Russia was on the side of free government, [Applause]. And it is not only pleasant in that respect, my friends, but it is pleasant to go to a friendly people, and I break my ties with the people of Pennsylvania with more satisfaction on that account. Truly it is cold, a cold country, but of a warm people; and in your presence to-night I declare that in my official connection with the people of Penn'a., and in my conduct during those six years, I am not ashamed to say I have no blushes to cool in the snows of Russia. [Cheers.] I separate, my friends, with great reluctance from the men who served their country during the war. With that class of our fellow-citizens I had intimate relations. I tried to support them in their duties to their country. I am proud that this great State of Pennsylvania has provided for the orphans and widows of the men who fell to save our Government. It is a proud satisfaction to Pennsylvania to know that she is the only State that ever did so great and holy a work of beneficence and charity. I would that from the full treasury of this State, more money shall be taken for the crippled and sick men of the war. Oh, my friends, if I should return to my country and know that the thousands of wounded men who are at the corners of your streets grinding organs and picking up a scanty living by begging, were provided for, I would feel still prouder of this great State of Pennsylvania. You are almost out of debt. You owe an immense debt of gratitude to those who served you during the war. We stayed at home and enjoyed the luxuries of life. They were exposed to battle and slaughter, and passed the lonely picket in the night surrounded with dangers. He was promised, when he left his home, that living he should be cared for, and that when dead his wife should be protected, and his orphans maintained at the public expense. We all promised that. Let us redeem that promise, and let the great heart of the people of Penn'a., move for the protection of that class of our fellow-citizens; and I am ashamed to say, to-night, Pennsylvania has not done her duty to the crippled and maimed and helpless men of the war. [Applause.] I would to God that the heart of Pennsylvania was moved in that direction.

I congratulate you to-night, my friends, that we are now at peace, and I trust that on my return I will find this great nationality all united, and all the questions that agitated the public mind of the people of the North, South, and East, and West be removed, and that I will find the American nation a great homogeneous people; that all the interests of trade and commerce will be flourishing; that labor will be of its actual value, and that the greenbacks and the precious metal will be back to a gold standard in value.

Governor Curtin then proceeded to urge upon his hearers the necessity of standing by the Government and by its integrity; and as God has been pleased to give to you the blessing of this free Government, as you hold it for yourselves may you transmit it to your posterity, pure and free and strong, as it came from the apostles of liberty in the Revolution. And now, my friends, I wish you farewell. I do not go in a day, or in two days. I expect to look in the faces of some of the men who survived the war, before I go. It is not likely I will see you again. I am much obliged to you for this compliment which you have paid me, and wherever I go or stay, I will be ever grateful to the people of Pennsylvania for their continued support, for their confidence and respect, and I will return to Pennsylvania, please God, to live and die amongst you; and I trust that nothing will occur while I am abroad to change my relations to the people of this State. There is one thing you may rely upon, citizens of Philrdelphia, that whatever capacity I may fill abroad, whatever I may do in the mission I am about filling I will maintain the honor and the integrity of my country. God's will be done. [Applause.]

The band played "Home, Sweet Home," after which the party proceeded to the residence of Titian J. Coffey, Esq., the secretary of legation, and serenaded that gentleman in like manner.

THE SECRET OF HAPPINESS.

Some folks are always fretting,
Will their troubles never cease?
Will nothing ever bring them
The blessed boon of peace?

To peace and true contentment
The way is very plain,
And if you'll pay attention
The secret I'll explain.

Smith's home was all confusion,
His wife would scold and fret,
And such a scene I really think
I never shall forget.

His wife would spank the children,
And chase them off to bed;
Sat down, and cry as women do,
And wish that she were dead.

She'd call her husband awful names,
A "nasty, horrid man."
And if he "did'nt change his ways,"
She'd "go right home to 'mam.'"

When Smith returned to bed one night,
He thought the matter o'er,
He vowed he'd end this foolish fight—
Have peace at home once more.

Ere long the neighbors noticed
His wife had changed her tone,
And Smith was "gay and happy,"
For he'd bought an 'Our Old Home.'

Now his wife is every smiling,
And all he wrath has flown;
And she calls her husband "darling,"
For he's bought an "Our Old Home."

Smith says his "wife has really
The sweetest temper known,
And everything is lovely
Since he's bo't an 'Our Old Home.'"

And now he takes his comfort;
He's found happiness at last,
And sunbeams bright and glancy
Around his way are cast.

FARM FOR SALE.—Bond Valentine offers his splendid farm, of 195 acres, with in one and a half miles of Bellefonte, for sale. For full particulars, inquire of Mr. Valentine, or at the office of the REPUBLICAN.

BUILDING LOTS.—We would again call attention to the advertisement of "Town Lots for Sale," by Dr. Wingate. They are selling finely. The position of the lots is an excellent one for erecting buildings for a home or to sell. Take a look at them.

Our local notice in last week's issue, alleging that Judge Mayer had taken snap judgment in the matter of licenses, and acted with indecent haste, was written under a misapprehension of the facts as we are now informed that the Judge gave notice at the former Court that he would consider licenses on Monday, in future, and such now is one of the rules of Court. Our ladies not having employed an Attorney, there was no one there to represent them.

BELLEFONTE PLANING MILL.—We neglected, last week, to notice that Wm. H. Smith, a first rate mechanic, had purchased a one-fourth interest in the Bellefonte Planing Mill. Mr. Smith is well known to the people of this Borough, and, indeed, throughout the county, and therefore needs not our endorsement.—The mills, under his supervision, we have no doubt, will be profitable to the owners, and a great benefit to the people of the county.

TO THE PUBLIC.—Rev. P. Coombe will preach on Sunday morning, May 9th, and also in the evening of the same day, in the M. E. Church, in Bellefonte. Subject, in the morning, "The Sinfulness of the License System;" in the evening the subject will be "The overthrow of the License Law, and the 'Whiskey Ring.'" Parents, young men, young women christians of all denominations, and the public generally, are invited to attend.

Rev. Coombe is one of the most justly celebrated and popular speakers and ministers of the age. A rich treat is in store for the people. Come one, come all. Pews free.

MEETING OF THE COUNTY COMMITTEE.—In pursuance of the call by the Chairman of the County Committee, a meeting of the Committee was held at the club room, in Bellefonte, at 1 o'clock, P. M., April 27, 1869. The meeting was called to order by Wm. P. Wilson, Esq. Chairman, who stated the object of the meeting to be the election of a delegate to the State convention, of June 23, 1869, and conferees to a Senatorial conference to appoint two Senatorial delegates.

Capt. A. B. Hutchison was thereupon elected on the first ballot representative delegate to the State convention.

On motion, Wm. P. Wilson, Esq., Chairman, was authorized to appoint three conferees to the Senatorial conference. After deliberation it was determined that no instructions be given as to nominees for Governor.

JNO. G. LOVE, Secretary. WM. P. WILSON, President.

CANE PRESENTATION.—Maj. R. H. Forster, the retiring Assessor of this District, was presented with a very handsome ebony gold-headed cane by the Ass't Assessors and clerks who served within his jurisdiction. The presentation took place at the residence of Maj. Forster, on Wednesday evening last.—Ass't Assessor Donaldson, of Lock Haven, made a very eloquent speech, conveying to the Major the friendly sentiments of his subordinates, and in token thereof, handed to him the cane, inscribed "A Token of Regard, to Major R. H. Forster, from the Ass't Assessors and Clerks of the 18th District." Maj. Forster replied in a highly appropriate speech, and concluded by inviting his friends there present to a collation, to which all at that time, even including the members of the pross, did ample justice, but to which we are unable to do the same justice in this brief notice. Suffice it to say it was elegant, and that the entire affair passed off to the hearty enjoyment and satisfaction of all concerned.

Is there a boy in Chillicothe, whose name is "Uli Damyer?" We hear very loud calls for him occasionally from the little boys who congregate about the corners, and particularly when a dispute arises concerning any game in which they may chance to be engaged. We judge, from the frequency of these calls for him on occasions of this kind, that he must be a little fellow of vast judgment and wisdom, who is called upon to act as umpire. We hope "Uli" will always appear promptly hereafter, so that these little boys won't have to call him so often. The older citizens of the place will feel particularly relieved if he will only do so.—Chillicothe Gazette.

From the frequent calls for "Uli" by the boys of Bellefonte, we judge that "Uli Damyer" must have removed from Chillicothe to this place. We do not think "Uli" is a good boy, nor do we think that he "is a little fellow of vast judgment and wisdom," and, moreover, we think he is not fit to act as "umpire" on any question. He is simply a bad boy, one who should not be trusted any more than the boys who so frequently call upon him or use his name. No good boy will wear; this is an admitted fact. Every little boy knows that it is wrong to swear; but he hears men swearing, and from this he learns to do so, swearing being a respectable. It is not so bois. It is disgraceful for men to swear. They know it. We hope the boys will cease to swear, and cease calling upon Uli.

And thus teach the men of our town a lesson.

LECTURE.—Rev. P. Combe, of Philadelphia, will lecture on Temperance, on Monday evening, May 10. The public generally are invited to attend.

REMOVED.—We neglected last week to inform the public that Jacob Shrom had removed his saddler shop from the old stand, to the first room, up stairs, in Reynold's iron-front building, on Allegheny street. You cannot get into Hoffer & Bro's store without seeing the sign of Mr. Shrom. He is a good workman, and solicits a share of the public patronage.

BUSH HOUSE.—This hotel is now open for the accommodation of strangers and travellers. The Bush House is one of the largest hotels in the State, outside the cities. It contains 100 rooms, with all the modern improvements. We understand that the Proprietor is determined to make it not only first-class, but a superior house in every particular.—Bush & McClane deserve great praise for their enterprise in the erection of this building. We hope the men who have the management of the hotel may meet with abundant success. Such enterprise should be rewarded.

HARNESS, WHIPS, &c.—The most extensive manufacturer of harness, saddles, &c., is J. H. McClure, in his new building, on Bishop street. As we write this article, we can look out of our Sanctum window and see a large display of harness, collars, &c., hanging out at his door. We also discover a large number of the very best whips. Harvey brags on his whips. He says he has the best of everything, and will keep nothing else; but his whips are a superior article, not excelled in Central Pennsylvania. If you want a good whip; if you want a No 1 saddle, if you want a good sett of harness, go to J. H. McClure, on Bishop st.

A CURIOUS OFFER.—Dr. Sage has discovered a perfect specific for Catarrh "Cold in the Head," Dizziness, Tainted Breath and Catarrhal Headache. The proprietor, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., offers $500 for a case of Catarrh that he cannot cure. It is the cheapest and best remedy for that loathsome disease ever offered to the public. Don't be put off by your druggist with some miserable substitute. It he has not got Dr Sage's Catarrh Remedy for sale, let him order it, or send sixty cents to the proprietor, and it will reach you by return mail.

For sale by most Druggists every where. 2t.

UP AT LAST.—Mr. Edward Brown raised his new building, on the corner of Allegheny and Bishop streets, on Wednesday last. It is a frame building, three stories high. The first story consists of three nice store rooms. From what we can learn, the rooms are already engaged. The more stores the better. Bellefonte is coming up. Improving because surrounded by the most industrious farmers and the richest valleys in the State. As the farmers and people grow rich, Bellefonte must improve. Merchants trying to do business in some of the little surrounding one-horse county towns, would do well to pay Bellefonte a visit, look at her surroundings—the wealth of our farmers and people—the future prospects of our whole county. If they would do this, we have no hesitancy in saying that they would locate here at once.

A NEW PAPER.—The Progress of Liberty is the title of a new paper, the fifth number of which is on our table, published at Harrisburg, Pa. It is owned and edited by a colored man, O. L. C. Hughes. It is well printed, strong and ably edited, and should find its way into every colored family in the State. Why should the colored man, born upon our own soil, be deprived of the same political rights that are conferred upon those who are foreigners, and not to the manor born? Why should any naturalized citizen oppose negro suffrage? The Editor of The Progress of Liberty is a fine writer, and will, we have no doubt, strike heavy and effectual blows in behalf of the liberties of his people, and in breaking down the prejudices, growing out of the infernal system of slavery, which exists against them.

NEW LAW OF TESTIMONY.—The following is the act passed by the last Legislature, permitting parties to the record of any civil proceeding, except in exceptional cases stated in the first section, to give evidence on trial. The law has been in force since the 15th, and the general impression seems to be that it will prove advantageous to the administration of justice:

SECTION 1. Be it enacted &c., That no interest nor policy of law shall exclude a party or person from being a witness in any civil proceeding: Provided, This act shall not alter the law as now declared and practiced in the courts of this Commonwealth, so as to allow husband and wife to testify against each other, nor counsel to testify to the confidential communication of his client; and this act shall not apply to actions by or against executors, administrators or guardians, nor where the assignor of the thing or contract in action may be dead, except in issue and inquiries devisavit vel non and others; respecting the right of such deceased owner, between parties claiming such right by devolution on the death of such owner.

SEC. 2. That a party to the record of every proceeding, in law or equity, or a person for whose immediate benefit such proceeding is prosecuted or defended, may be examined as if under cross examination, at the instance of the adverse party, or any of them, and for that purpose may be compelled in the same manner, and subject to the same rules for such examination as any other witness, to testify; but the party calling for such examinations shall not be excluded there by, but may rebut it by counter testimony.

SEC. 3. That the testimony of witnesses authorized by this act may be had by deposition or commission issued as the case may require, with such notice to the adverse party, as is now or may hereafter be prescribed by the rules of proper court, touching the taking of deposition and testimony and commission.

JOHN CLARK, Speaker of the House of Representatives.
WILLIAM WORTHINGTON, Speaker of the Senate.

Approved the Fifteenth day of April, Anno Domini, one thousand eight hundred and sixty-nine. JOHN W. GEARY.

BOROUGH ELECTION.—The election for School Directors, Town Councilmen, Chief Burgess, Ass't Burgess, &c., passed off quietly on Monday last. The whole Republican ticket was elected, with the exception of one of the candidates for Town Council. We are sorry that any of the Republicans of Bellefonte scratched or cut the ticket. There certainly was no good reason for it. It is not the way to strengthen the party, or to maintain harmony in our ranks. The following are the names of the persons elected:

Chief Burgess, Jesse Klinger; Ass't Burgess, Capt. A. B. Hutchison; Town Council, Rob't Valentine, Dan'l Rhoads, Republicans, and John Tedd, Democrat; School Directors, Geo. M. Yocum, Jas. H. Rankin; High Constable, James Fannon. It is glory enough for one day.

A PRETTY WOMAN.—A pretty woman, says an exchange, is one of the institutions of the country—an angel in muslin and glory. She makes sunshine, blue sky, and happiness wherever she goes. Her path is one of delicious roses, perfume and beauty. She is a sweet poem, written in rare colors and choice silk, and principles. Men stand up before her as so many admiration points. Her words float around the ear like music, birds of paradise, or the music of the Sabbath bells. Without her, society would lose its truest attraction, the Church its firmest reliance, the young men the very best company. Her influence and generosity restrains the vicious, strengthens the faint-hearted. Wherever you find the virtuous woman, you also find the fire-side boquets, clean clothes, order, good living, gentle hearts, music, and light, and modern institutions generally. She is the flower of humanity, and her inspiration is the breath of heaven.

BEECH CREEK, PA., April 27th '69.

BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN:—As many of the citizens in the Northern and Western portion of the County are interested in the lumber business, it may not be out of place to give to the public the amount of lumber that has been cut and put in Beech Creek, in this county, for the last season, and to be drove down that stream this spring. Below will be found a statement of the amount, which is not far from correct:

Messrs. Winslow & Bickford (feet (board measure)	1,800,000
Messrs. Welsh & Allen, (feet, board measure)	2,000,000
Messrs. Saylor, Day & Morey, (feet, board measure)	10,500,000

FATAL ACCIDENT.—On last Friday, while engaged in coupling cars, at Central city, John Long was caught by the cars, thrown down and run over.—The cars, we understand, run over both legs, injuring both, but entirely crushing one of them, rendering amputation necessary. The leg was amputated by Dr. Geo. L. Potter, assisted by Drs. Dobbins, McCoy and Hoshan. It was a complete crush from the ankle to the knee joint, involving the knee joint.—Every effort was made by the Physicians, that experience, skill and science could make, but all to no avail. Mr. Long, after severe suffering, died on Sunday last.

Too much cannot be said in commendation of Mr. Jackson Levy and his excellent lady, of that city, for the kindness they showed to him.

It is high time that Railroad companies would adopt some of the newly invented and less dangerous methods of coupling cars. From present appearances, we think the estimate of human life, on the part of Railroad companies, is pretty low.

FROM MILESBURG.—The planing mill of this place has undergone a thorough repair, consisting of a new tubular boiler of 47 three inch tubes; length of boiler, 13 feet; diameter, 4 feet; said to be 40 horse power, sufficient to propel all the machinery for the manufacturing of everything pertaining to the erection of handsome domicils for man's comfort.—The mill is under the auspices of Messrs. Mackey, Adams, Haupt & Co. In connection with the firm are three of the best practical mechanics in the State.—Persons having work to do can best test their ability, and skill, by trying them. They have the best of lumber, thoroughly dried in their kiln erected for that purpose, and are prepared to do any kind of mill work, in the best of style, and on the shortest notice. Persons desiring work of this kind, will do well by calling, as they will find the proprietors gentlemen in every respect, always ready and willing to accommodate. They study both to please and benefit. Motto—quick sales and small profits. The mill starts on Wednesday the 5th inst.

RAIL ROAD ACCIDENT.—As the Bald Eagle Valley mail train which leaves Lock Haven at 2:30 P.M. for Tyrone, on Monday last, the 26th was approaching a point near the west end of the Borough of Lock Haven, where the Towing path of the Canal and R. R., are but a few feet apart, a boy was leading a horse along on the path which was engaged in towing saw logs to some of the saw mills, the horse took fright, broke loose from the boy, and ran on the track. The cow catcher struck the horse throwing it from the track down into the ditch about eight or ten feet into the mud, causing the engine to run off the track. The engineer jumped off, and escaped unharmed. The fireman went over with the engine, but was not seriously injured. In consequence of the train not having got to full speed, the coaches which remained on the track, was stopped before any damage was done to them or the passengers. Conductor Hoop dispatched to Supt Wikinson at Tyrone, who sent a man engine and brought his train to Tyrone the same night. The derailed engine was replaced on the road again by laying a track down to it. The engine was badly damaged after running off the track.

Died.

[From the Philipsburg Journal.]

WHITE—In Philipsburg, Pa., suddenly, on the 25th inst., JOHN G. WHITE, aged 69 years.

Mr. White was one of the earliest settlers of Philipsburg having located here in 1824, when our now flourishing town was a howling wilderness, inhabited by wild animals, many of which were made to bite the dust by his unerring rifle. The small party of settlers endured the hardships and privations incident to a new settlement for many years, living together as a band of brothers, doing one for the other, and looking to each other's welfare. The subject of this notice was a man of more than ordinary mind—strong in his attachments, untiring in his efforts to accomplish his end. Ever kind and benevolent, his house furnished a shelter for many a poor homeless mortal. His truth and honesty were doubted by no one. The deceased raised a family of children, among whom were two sons—young men of respectability—the pride and hope of a fond father, both of whom fell in the defense of their country in the late rebellion, one at Gettysburg, the other at South Mountain; and the parent, at his advanced age, was only prevented joining the army by the persuasion of his friends, so strong was his love for his country and his zeal in a good and just cause. His country, next to his God, was always uppermost, and he died as he had lived, a kind-hearted truthful, high-minded and generous man. May he rest in peace. H.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, May 5, '69.

When to Buy a Farm.

Very few persons seem to know that the months of June and July are the best in the year in which to look for or purchase a farm. At this season one can judge whether the land can or does produce good crops; for, if it is rich the waving grass and grain will be an ocular demonstration of the fact; and if there is, according to the stereotyped assertion, an abundance of choice fruit, it can be seen at this time to the best advantage. The low lands will show whether they are really dry enough for pastures in summer, and the upland its capacity for withstanding a drought. If there are any mosquitoes about they will generally make their appearance known at this time if ever, and by observing the children in the neighborhood one can determine whether the locality is healthy or otherwise.

Summer is also a good time to view the never failing spring and the trout-pond near by, and a draught from the one and a lunch from the other are attractions which those who possess them seldom fail to bestow upon those who are likely to become a purchaser. Even the weeds on a farm assist a man in determining its value; for if nothing but stunted ragweeds and five-finger are to be seen, then the land may be set down as poor indeed; but if burdock and catnip abound, it shows strength to produce crops of a high order.

The pasture and meadow, orchard and garden, all show what they are and what may be expected of them in these months; but earlier or later the aspect of things may change. In the spring the trees may not have shown leaves, flowers or fruit; the roads are muddy, if ever; and the distance from the farm to the railroad station appears to be much greater than it actually is, especially to a stranger.—In autumn the leaves are turning yellow, the grain has been gathered, the fruits are nearly gone; still the air is fresh and the landscape glowing with autumn tints; but the valuable products of a farm, which are its products, are mainly out of sight, being stored in the barn or in the proprietor's pocket.

Bedding Horses in Sawdust.

A late issue of the London Field contains the result of an experiment, the feasibility of which says: "Having used sawdust as bedding for horses for a length of time, the results of my experience may not be unacceptable to some of your inquiring readers. I litter my horse on it to the depth of five or six inches, raking off the damp and solid surface every morning, and spreading evenly a little fresh, removing the whole only four times a year. Its advantages appeared to be many, of which I will state a few which give it, in my estimation, its greatest superiority over straw. It is much cleaner and more easily arranged, and of course much cheaper at first cost, making in the end excellent manure. It is peculiarly beneficial to the feet, affording a cool, porous stuffing, a substitute for the soil or earth we always find in the hoofs of a horse at grass, and present the resemblance to the horses' footing—the earth.

"We have never had a diseased foot since the introduction of sawdust in the stable, now some years since. Horses bedded on sawdust are also freer from dust stains than when on ordinary litter (simply because sawdust is a better absorbent, perhaps), and testify their own approval of it by frequently rolling and lying down for hours in the day. It has also the recommendation of being unedible—an advantage which all in charge of horses with the habit of consuming their litter, will readily admit. Being free from pungent smell, which is apt to accompany straw (unless scrupulously kept) it is innocent to weak eyes, and its slight turpentine odor is rather a sweetener than otherwise. It makes (when converted into manure) the best possible foundation for hot-beds, and unlike other stable manure, forms no harbor or refuge for vermin. Pine sawdust is the best, and oak the worst, as the latter turns black on the second day."

OYSTER shells and lime marls are very beneficial to soils which have been repeatedly and severely cropped. Lime marls, especially, are valuable. They contain phosphorus and ammonia, both of which properties the soil must have to produce wheat. The shell and marl can be burned like limestone, and hauled on the fields and slacked, when they are finely pulverized, and can be evenly distributed over the field. This lime should be used only as a top-dressing and harrowed in, as it has a tendency to sink into the soil.

THE disease known as diptheria in chickens may be cured easily by the following method: Take a small wooden paddle and remove the yellow matter from the tongue, and then apply lard and black pepper to the diseased parts. A single application is generally sufficient, and a second is always sufficient.

WHITEWASH is all right in its place—and it is in its place on fences and out buildings, but it is not in its place when it is on trees, where we have seen it in several orchards and door yards. Don't try to make the trunks of your trees look like fence posts.

The Potato Mania.

What has it all amounted to? Has all the high prices and careful culture done anything for us except to show the utter folly of people paying a dollar per pound for any of them at any time? One-tenth that price would have been their full value. What has become of the Monitor, the Harrison, the Early Goodrich, the Garnet-Chili, the Cusco, the Rusty-Coat and half a dozen others? Not one of them can come within a mile of the Peach-Blow, either the pink or white variety.

A writer in the Prairie Farmer, residing in Grundy county, Illinois, speaking of his potato crop, last year, says: "My early potatoes did not do well last season; the hot weather of June and July was too much for them. But my Peach-Blows yielded me over two hundred bushels an acre. Whenever my boys and I saw statements in the paper of large yields of single hills, of Early Rose or any other of the fancy potatoes, we weighed the best hills dug for table use, and found that we were ahead nearly every time. Hence, we have not taken stock in the mania for the new sorts, preferring to wait until we see whether the men who cultivate them can beat the old-fashioned Peach-Blows."

We do not wish at this time to express an opinion of the Early Rose, as we know too little about it. We think, however, that it is likely to prove a good early variety, and should it maintain permanently its present character for productiveness, and its excellent quality as a table esculent, though it be only up to the first of January, we should unhesitatingly pronounce it a great acquisition. With the Rose for an early and the Peach-Blows for a late variety, should they all escape the rot, we would cheerfully be content.—Germantown Telegraph.

Does Clover or Timothy Cause Rust on Wheat?

Upon this subject a correspondent of the Rural Gentleman says:

This is a question, that has for a long time agitated the minds of intelligent farmers, but it has been settled to my mind, at least, by a series of experiments. I am satisfied that it does in at least ninety-five cases out of a hundred.

I have sown the wheat with and without the grass seed, and have never seen rust when there was no grass, whilst in the same field the rust has effected the wheat. The grass holds the dampness of the roots of the wheat, and when the sun shines out very warm, produces the blight. Besides the wheat standing alone will produce five bushels more to the acre than when the grass is sown. I mean, now, that this will be the average difference.

But the question arises: When shall the grass be sown? I answer: After the wheat harvest, plow the field and prepare it smoothly and sow the grass seeds of whatever kind you desire, and your crop of grass the coming season will be equally as good if not better, than if sown with the wheat.

Farmers, try the above, and my word for it, the result will be satisfactory.

Rollig Grain in The Spring.

If farmers would look at the theory of rolling the wheat and rye fields in the spring, says the Germantown Telegraph, it would be resorted to much more frequently than it is. Occasionally the winter and spring have been so favorable to these crops as not to render it necessary. But in three seasons out of four it is necessary, and doubtless adds considerable to their productiveness. The thawings and the freezings of the ground, throwing or spewing out the roots and exposing them to the drying winds of February and March, very seriously affect the grain. Passing a roller over as soon as the soil is fit to enter upon, presses back the roots into their beds, and gives them a fair grip again upon the support on which the crop must depend. This must be apparent to every one who will look at its operation. We have no doubt that rolling clover fields that have been badly thrown up by the frost, would also have a most beneficial effect.

Value of Cabbages.

For several weeks past large and round cabbage-heads have been selling for thirty and forty cents each, many of which would scarcely fill a peck-measure. Allowing each cabbage to occupy, while growing, a superficial area of nine feet, 4840 cabbages may be grown on one acre, which, if sold for only ten cents per head, would amount to $484 for the produce of a single acre. The amount of manure requisite for one acre, together with the expence incurred in cultivation, would not exceed $150, thus leaving a clean profit of $334 per acre. For men at a distance from New-York could appropriate two or three acres of their richest land to cabbage, and thus make three or four times as much as they do. Every plant needs a quart or two of good compost deposited where the roots may feed on it.

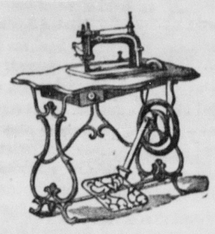
HOME-MADE GUANO.—Collect a barrel of bones, crush them; mix with a barrel of oak or hickory ashes; moisten with soap-suds, apply a quart or two as a special fertilizer on melons, squashes, early corn and cucumbers: allowing a gill to a hill.

THE California wheat crop is so large that, if mistakes are not made, it has never been equalled in any country. They talk of 75, 80, and in one case 100 bushels per acre.

MISCELLANEOUS.

AMERICAN BUTTON-HOLE OVER-SEAMING AND SEWING MACHINE COMBINED.

MEDAL AWARDED AT THE PARIS EXPOSITION, 1867.



In directing attention to the celebrated COMBINATION BUTTON HOLE AND SEWING MACHINE, we feel fully warranted in claiming for it unquestionable superiority over all others as a Family Machine.—The Simplicity, Ease and Certainty with which it operates, as well as the uniform excellence of its work, certainly place it far in advance of any other similar invention of the age.

It is also the cheapest, intrinsically, as well as the best, since it is really two machines combined in one, (by a simple and beautiful mechanical arrangement never before accomplished by human ingenuity,) making either the Lock Stitch or Button Hole Stitch, as occasion may require. It is, at the same time, simple in construction, comparatively noiseless, easily understood, and, in a word, it combines with those advantages exclusively its own the most desirable qualities of all others, for it not only does every variety of sewing in a SUPERIOR MANNER, but in addition OVERSEAMS splendidly and makes beautiful BUTTON and EYELET HOLES in all fabrics. This is far beyond the capacity of any other machine.

The SPLENDID MECHANISM of this Machine, and the superior skill workmanship and materials employed in its construction, are a guarantee of accuracy, strength and durability, and enable the company and its agents to Warrant Every Machine they sell to give entire satisfaction.

INSTRUCTIONS GIVEN ON THE MACHINE GRATUITOUSLY.

Lessons may be taken if desired with a view to test the Machine, or to become better acquainted with it before deciding to purchase. Samples of work will be furnished upon application at
